Walter's Pueblo Chile Beer® will appear in cans at the 2018 Pueblo Chile and Frijoles Festival

Pueblo, Colorado, September 17, 2018 --- The Walter Brewing Company, originally established in Pueblo in the late 1800's, and still microbrewed today at 126 Oneida Street in Pueblo, Colorado, announced that it will bring its consumer favorite Walter's Pueblo Chile Beer® in cans to this year's Pueblo Chile Festival.

Walter's Pueblo Chile Beer® has been a consistent product at the festival each year and the company is excited to continue its presence with the product in its canned form. The product will be available in weeks to come to retailers and customers alike throughout Colorado.

During the festival cans will be available for consumption at Wine Down by the River at the intersection of Union Avenue and the Riverwalk and at Walter's Brewery and Taproom at its home location at 126 Oneida Street--just two blocks east of the festival on D Street.

Walter's Beer takes pride in its Pueblo roots and in its focus on craft brewing its product in pre-prohibition style while also serving in-house beers and many guest taps at its historic taproom located at the original 1880's Lemp Lager Beer Depot at Oneida Street.

Prior to the festival the can will be launched at the Walter's Taproom on this Wednesday, September 19th and six packs will be available for sale onsite that day. The brewery phone number is 719-542-0766 and more information about the brewery can be found at waltersbeer.com or on Facebook. (Additionally, Walter's Original Pre-Prohibition Pilsner beer will be available in cans to consumers during the fall season.)
